

ROUTES NEWS

Routes 25th Anniversary Edition

The separate magazine will be in addition to next year's publishing schedule and will commemorate 25 years of World Routes events as the brand reaches this milestone. The one-off edition will not just look back at 25 years of aviation and Routes events but will also look to the future, to see just how aviation and tourism markets will develop. More than 3,000 copies of the magazine will be handed out at World Routes 2019 in Adelaide, Australia. Content will include:

25 year review: Aviation sector

Even for such a fast-moving industry, the aviation market has changed beyond all recognition since the first World Routes. We review the key changes.

25 year review: Routes

Relive the events and meet some of the people who have been attending them for years as they recount their own experiences since the first World Routes.

25 year review: ASM

The world-leading aviation consultancy reviews some of the most important routes launched in the last 25 years.

Airlines: The future of aircraft

As customer demand grows and changes, so route development experts are exploring new opportunities. We consider how future aircraft design will help drive this brave new world.

Airports: Game changers

We review some of the game-changing airports which have redefined the industry in the last 25 years.

Airports: The future

We consider how airports will adjust in the future to meet the changing demands of both airlines and customers.

Tourism: The future

A look at how tourist boards can become even more effective in driving route development as well as some of the future key markets.

Technology: The future

With aviation becoming ever more reliant on technology, we consider the impact it will have on route development.

COMMEMORATING
25
YEARS
OF WORLD ROUTES

MORE INFORMATION

Edward Robertson, Editor
+44 (0)20 3714 4116
erobertson@ttgmedia.com

Chris Gascoine, Sales manager
+44 (0)20 3714 4121
cgascoine@ttgmedia.com